

[BY THE AMERICA]

The Treaty of Peace.

The London Daily News has succeeded in obtaining a copy of the text of the Peace document, which is considered authentic. It contains thirty-four articles. The first restored perpetual friendship between Great Britain, Russia, Turkey, France and Russia.

Second—All territories conquered or occupied during the war, shall be reciprocally evacuated as soon as possible.

Third—Russia restores to Turkey, Kara, and all other parts of the Ottoman Empire.

Fourth—The Allies restore to Russia the towns and ports of Sevastopol, Balaklava, Kamiesch, Eupatoria and Kerch.

Articles Fifth, Sixth, Seventh and Eight are wanting.

Ninth—The Sultan communicated to the powers his firm granting equality to Christians, which the contracting powers much approve of, but divest themselves of all right thereby to interfere in the internal administration of the government of the Ottoman Empire.

Tenth—The Convention of the 13th of July, 1841, closing the Bosphorus and Dardanelles, is reaffirmed.

Eleventh—The Black Sea is neutralized and forever forbidden to all ships of war of every power, adjoining or distant, with the exceptions specified in articles 14th and 19th.

Twelfth—Trade shall be free in the Black Sea waters and ports, subject only to police regulations, Russia and Turkey admitting consuls to all ports on its shores.

Thirteenth—The Black Sea being neutralized, strongholds become useless; consequently Turkey and Russia agree neither to construct nor preserve any maritime armaments on the coast.

Fourteenth—The Convention regulating the force of ships for coast service, is concluded individually between Turkey and Russia, but is appended to this treaty, and cannot be altered without general consent.

Fifteenth—The act of the Congress of Vienna, relative to river navigation, is applied to the Danube and its mouths, and its freedom becomes a part of the law of the Empire.

Sixteenth—To carry article fifteen into effect, France, Austria, Great Britain, Prussia, Russia and Turkey appoint each a delegate to put the river in a navigable state, from Isatcha to Tza.

Seventeenth—Austria, Bavaria, Turkey, and Wurttemberg add each a delegate to the Principal Commission, to form a permanent Commission, to keep the river navigable and superintend its police.

Eighteenth—The named general commission will be dissolved in two years, and the permanent commission take its place.

Nineteenth—Each of the contracting powers may station two small ships at the mouth of the Danube.

Twentieth—Russia assents to the rectification of the Bessarabian frontier. The new frontier starts from the Black Sea, one mile east of Lake Bonosa Sola to the Arkerman Road, along which extends the valley of Tragran, passing south of Belgrade, and reascends to the river Yalpack to Savatiska, and terminates at Kamari, on the River Pruth. Elsewhere it is unchanged.

Twenty-first—This ceded territory is annexed to Moldavia.

Twenty-second—Moldavia and Wallachia continue under the sovereignty of Turkey, with the guarantee of all contracting Powers that no power shall claim the individual right of interference.

Twenty-third—The Porte guarantees to the said Principalities the continuance of freedom of religion and commerce. The contracting Powers appoint a Commission to meet immediately at Bucharest, to report on the present condition and wants of the Principalities.

Twenty-fourth—The Porte will immediately convocate a Divan in each Principality, to learn the wishes of the people as to their relative organization.

Twenty-fifth—Minutes thereof shall be sent to Paris, where the Constitution shall be framed which Porte shall promulgate.

Twenty-sixth—The Principalities shall maintain a militia, and may construct works of defence approved by the Porte.

Twenty-seventh—If the internal tranquillity of the Principalities be disturbed, the Porte must consult the contracting powers, and cannot employ armed intervention without their consent.

Twenty-eighth—Servia continues to be a dependency of the Porte under the Powers guaranteed, and retains its national administration and freedom of religion and traffic.

Twenty-ninth—The right of garrison in Servia is reserved by the Porte, but no armed intervention is permitted without the consent of the Powers.

Thirtieth—Russia and Turkey retain their possessions in Asia, precisely as before the war, but their frontiers are to be marked out by the survey.

Thirty-first—The evacuation of Turkey by the Allies and Austrian forces, shall take place as soon as convenient. The time and manner of such evacuation shall be the subject of private arrangement between each of the Powers and Turkey.

Thirty-second—Until new arrangements shall be made, trade shall go on as before the war.

Thirty-third—A convention (the contents secret) concluded between France, England and Russia, respecting the Aland Isles, shall be appended to the treaty.

Thirty-fourth—The ratification shall be exchanged at Paris within four weeks. The London Sun republished the treaty surrounded with a mourning border.

[BY THE CITY OF BATHMORE]

Speech of the Emperor of Russia on the Peace.

The anticipated speech of the Emperor Alexander is contained in a letter from Moscow, dated the 11th of April. The Moscow writer states that the Emperor arrived quite unexpectedly in that city accompanied by the Grand Dukes Constantine, Michael, and Nicholas and a numerous staff. Their reception was the most enthusiastic. In the morning the Emperor gave an audience to Count Zakrevski, the Military Governor. Deputations from the nobles, and from the civil and military authorities, accompanied him. When all these persons were formed in a circle round him, the Emperor addressed them as follows:

"GENTLEMEN—The war is over, for I ratified the treaty of peace, which had been signed at Paris, before I left St. Petersburg. I am happy to be able to announce the news to you officially, and to repeat to the nobility of Moscow the words which I addressed to my people in my last manifesto. Russia was able to defend herself for many years to come, and I believe that, no matter what forces were brought against her, she was invulnerable on her own territory. But I felt that it was my duty, in the real interests of the country, to lend an ear to proposals compatible with the national honor. War is an abnormal state, and the greatest successes obtained by it scarcely compensate for the evils it occasions. It has caused an interruption in the commercial relations of the Empire with most of the States of Europe. I should certainly have carried it on had not the voice of neighboring States pronounced itself against the policy of late years. My father, of imperishable memory, had his reasons for acting as he did. I know his views; and I adhere to them from my very soul; but the treaty of Paris has obtained the object which it was his ambition to obtain, and I prefer this means to war.

"Many of you, I am aware, regret that I should have so readily accepted the proposal made to me. It was my duty, as a man, and as the head of the great Empire, either to reject them or accept them frankly; I have rejected and conscientiously fulfilled that duty; I am sure that allowances will be made for the difficult position in which I was placed, and that very shortly every devoted friend of Russia will render justice to my views and intentions for the welfare of the country.

"Supposing the fate of arms should have remained constantly favorable to us, as it has in Asia, the Empire would have exhausted its resources in keeping up large armies on different points, the soldiers of which would in a great measure be taken away from agriculture and labor. In the government of Moscow many manufactures have been compelled to close. I prefer the real prosperity of the arts of peace to the vain glory of combat.

"I have thrown open the ports of Russia to the commerce of the world, the frontiers to the free circulation of foreign produce. I wish, hereafter, that the greatest facility shall be afforded in our markets for the exchange of ware of every origin, and of the raw materials and manufactures of our soils. Various projects will shortly be communicated to you, the object of which will be to give an impulse to home industry, and in which, I trust, every nobleman will take a share."
